

Excel Staffing Companies Privacy Statement

Your Privacy is important to Excel Staffing Companies (Excel), and we are firmly committed to protecting the privacy of our web site users. The following discloses our information gathering and dissemination practices for this site.

The nature of our business – matching job applicants with positions at client companies – requires the collection of personal information, such as names, address, social security number, e-mail address and employment history. This personal data is exchanged with extreme care, and Excel has implemented technical and organizational measures designed to secure your personal information from unauthorized access, use, alteration or disclosure. We cannot, however, guarantee that unauthorized third parties will never be able to defeat those measures or use your personal information for improper purposes.

Excel may, on occasion, disclose your personal information to third parties when legally compelled to do so or when we believe the disclosure is necessary to identify, contact, or take action against anyone causing injury or threatening to cause injury to you, Excel, or the general public. Excel will use reasonable efforts to limit such disclosures to only what is required.

It is important to note that this web site may contain links and references to other sites, and that those sites may not follow the same privacy practices as excelstaff.com. While we attempt to ensure the integrity of other sites to which we may refer you, Excel assumes no responsibility for the privacy practices or the content of such other sites.

Use of this site signifies your understanding of and agreement to these terms. Excel reserves the right to change this policy at any time by posting a revised privacy policy online. If you have any questions about this privacy statement, the practices of this site, or your dealings with this site, please contact:
